Thinking Out Loud

By H. M. L.

We have just been reading a book called "Moral Re-Armament." It consists in the main of letters written to the principal newspapers of England, signed by names great in past and present England. In a nutshell, the letters are from sportsmen, soldiers and sailors, youth organizations, political leaders both conservative and laborite, all appealing for a new approach to international relations, now so badly managed that world war is imminent.

Fundamentally the doctrine preached is that of Mohammed and Christ, universal brotherhood. It calls to the sportsmanship of youth the world around. The principles of sportsmanship it regards as affording a ready made foundation on which international amity can be built. It is proposed to banish greed and hatred and to substitute good will and understanding. Fair play, a respect for the other's point of view, and his rights, his values as a member of the human race, are emphasized as a means of clearing away the suspicion and antagonism that now foment national and international quarrels.

This is a re-statement, in effect, of Christ's sermon on the Mount. Twenty years ago when the nations shook off the world war like a dreadful nightmare, and beheld the havoc wrought in four years, our youth was plunged into cynicism, old age was skeptic. The peace planners of Europe having brought the enemy to his knees proceeded to strip him of every material possession he had, save only room enough to live in. The peace planners doomed the whipped enemy to at least a generation of indutsrial slavery without mercy, without heart.

The oppressed slave has turned. He threatens his European masters. Twenty years after the event the doctrine which should have been preached, and was preached by President Wilson, whose voice cried in the wilderness, is being heard, widely in England and in lesser degree in France.

The fact that an editor of Nevada City, thousands of miles from London received this book through the mail, indicates that the movement for Moral Re-Armament is well financed. It indicates that editors throughout the world are receiving it, and that, freely, though the book sells for sixpence.

We think that this movement at this time is a natural and logical consequence of the world war and its aftermath. First was that period of disallusionment and cynicism. Next came an brief era of inflation and "riotous living", as the Good Book puts it. And of late years we have fed with the swine upon the husks. If ever there was a time, when the world is thoroughly ready for a revival and a practical application of Christian precept, the time is now. Germany, a nation enslaved, led by a man with the mind of a slave, endangers our civilization. We and all peoples on earth stand on a dizzy brink of chaos, a plunge into that outer darkness, from which, as a higher race we have so recently and painfully emerged.

When our uncouth, hard swearing, hard drinking and hard working ancestors, following the trails of the wilderness suddenly met a grizzly bear in their path and found themselves with a recently discharged musket in their hands and no time to reload, whether they had ever prayed or not, they prayed God then to deliver them from the bear. The world is in some such case today. Doubtless the democracies allied again, and with the help of Russia, could again whip the Germans, and include in the chastisement the Italians and the Japanese. But at what cost and to what end? At best, a repetition of the war that began in 1914, and at worst, a reversion to the law of claw and fang. To live in a world in which no torch of spirituality burns, to live again in the universal slavery and brutishness of the dark ages, after the great triumphs of science, after the splendid lift of modern thought, and the wealth and ease of living more universally enjoyed than ever before in history, is the last and deepest pit of hell.

If there is hope of universal peace it must be founded in some such regeneration as embodied in "Moral Re-Armament." If such a movement is to succeed, it must circle the earth like a flame in a train of power. For the time is short and the issue is between life and death of our civilization.

EARLY RESIDENT OF NEVADA CITY PASSES AWAY

Mrs. Adelaide Lester, Nevada City pioneer passed in San Francisco early Sunday morning from a weakened heart and infirmities of old age. She was born in 1849 and was 90 years of age at time of her death.

Mrs. Lester crossed the plains in pioneer times as an infant with her parents in a covered wagon. The Lester home on Spring street is considered the oldest wooden structure in Nevada City. It was the only house to go through the last big conflagration. When it was discovered Mrs. Lester was carrying water from Deer Creek to put on her home, it is related prisoners were released from the jail and helped her save the building.

Her father, Mr. Davis, was a gunsmith. The family was highly esteemed. Mrs. Lester was associated with Mrs. Crawford in a store where the Union Hotel now stands. Later she was in the employ of Rosenbergs, the store being where Dickerman's Drug store is now located.

Mrs Lester's daughter married E. B. Power, assistant U. S. Attorney General under Attorney General Webb.

Power has served about 28 years and will retire in a year or so. Both are natives of Nevada City. A son and grandson also survive.

The news of the passing of this gracious, brilliant woman is mourned by many who knew her. The larger portion of her life was spent in Nevada City and she always returned to her home for the summer vacation as long as her health would permit. Funeral services will be held in San Francisco tomorrow.

HARDLY AN OLSON BILL MAKES THE GRADE IN SACTO.

By CLEM WHITAKER

When the members of the 1939 State Legislature lock their desks, a few days hence, and board homebound trains, California's New Deal program—as advanced by Governor Olson—will be swept out by the jan-i tors, instead of being incorporated in the statute books.

No governor in California's history has been so completely routed by the legislature during his first year in office.

And scarcely a bill of major importance in the Olson program has survived the debacle!

There are many explanations of the legislature's rejection of Governor Olson's proposals—as many as there are shades of partisanship.

The governor's friends, for example, charge up much of the disaster to his illness, claiming that he lost control during the period when he was unable to be at his desk and keep a firm hand on his administration program. They also bitterly condemn members of his own party who deserted the governor on the issue of tax reduction and joined with Republicans in the economy bloc to scuttle his budget and tax legislation.

Rampant Republicans—a bit jubilant over their spectacular success—produly proclaim: "It looks like victory in 1940!" Mauy of the Olsonian policies they point out, are actually Rooseveltian policies. But Olson's program although it included much of the Rooseveltian philosophy, also contained remnants of Upton Sinclair's EPIC program of five years ago, and other purely Olsonian innovations. On the whole, it was more New Dealish than the New Deal itself, with production for use, and other ingredients new to Washington.

While Democrats and Republicans are bound to put different interpretations on the outcome, less partisan observers are in agreement on at least two major deductions: First that the pendulum has swung from the left to the right in California since last Fall's elections—or at least that legislators, who usually keep their finger on the public pulse, so interpret it. Second, that the people —Democrats and Republicans alike

MINER, FAKING SILICOSIS FACES PERJURY CHARGE

Mike Mikulin, 44 years old, under grand jury indictments for perjury, will have his preliminary hearing before Judge George L. Jones tomorrow at 9:30 o'clock. He was arraigned last Friday. His indictment and arrest was due to an effort to halt wide spread "racketeering" in compensation insurance through false testimony and affidavits. Mikulin, former employe of the Murchie mine, was arrested in Roseville last Thursday afternoon and placed in the Nevada county jail by Sheriff Carl J. Tobiassen.

Mikulin was indicted by the Nevada county grand jury at a special session Wednesday, following testimony by Robert Hendricks, manager of the Murchie, Zeibright and the Browns Valley mines, but the name was held secret until issuance of a bench warrant by Judge George L. Jones, Louis Saban, miner, also testified before the grand jury. Mikulin's bail was set at $1000.

Mikulin, claimant for compensation insurance for alleged silicosis at a hearing before Referee Warren Hanna of the Industrial Accident Commission on March 2, is said to have testified under oath that he never worked underground in California or outside of California prior to taking employment with the Empire-Star mines company in Nevada county.

Investigation on which the indictment was voted indicated that Mikulin had worked underground at least on two separate occasions at Ely, Nevada and was also employed as a tunnel miner on the Hetch-Hetchy project near Livermore for an extended period the dust count no the tunnel project being notoriously high at the time. Examination by competent physicians disproved Mikulin's contention that he was a victim of silicosis.

VANDALS DESTOY HIGHWAY SIGNS

SACRAMENTO, June 12.—In a letter addressed today to the sheriffs of the 19 counties comprising the Sacramento District of the California State Chamber of Commerce Highway Committee Chairman L. B. O'Rourke, of Blairden, called upon them for increased vigilance in the protection of highway safety and directional signs.

O'Rourke pointed out that damage amounting to more than a quarter million dollars yearly is being caused, now, by vandals and careless shooters and hunters, who use the highway signs as targets.

In his letter, he stated—"all signs are placed on public highways by the State Division of Highways and the County Boards of Supervisors, who have deemed them absolutely necessary for the safety and guidance of the motoring public. The Automobile Club of Southern California and the California State Automobile Association have standing offers of $25 reward for the arrest and conviction of persons found maliciously damaging these highway safety and directional signs."

O'Rourke concludes, "as a service to your taxpayers as well as the traveling public, let me urge you to instruct your deputies to exercise extreme watchfulness and to urge you to arrest all persons found mutilating highway directional and safety signs."

Final Roll-Call

Within a few days now, California legislators will be resorting to their traditional prank of "stopping the clock" as they rush pell-mell toward the close of the 1939 session. Hundreds of bills will be acted upon in that last hectic scramble, long after the hour of adiournment actually has passed, according to the layman's clock and calender. But "stopped clocks' in the Senate and Assembly chambers will make it all legal—and Old Father Time, if he keeps an eye on legislative affairs, will probably blink unbelievingly.

Balancing the ledger. the session thus far has been one of commendable accomplishment. For the first time in years. the constant increase in state expenditures has been checked. And new tax proposals—at least those which have reached a final roll call—have been decisively defeated. This record for sensible economy and tax relief has been achieved, furthermore. despite a constant clamor from pressure groups and organized minorities for bigger governmental subsidies. And the legislators who have stood up under fire and saved California from a new plunge into squandermania are entitled to the sincere appreciation of the folks at home who elected them.

The last days of a legislative session, however, are the most dangerous of the whole session—and voters and taxpayers should keep a vigilant eye on eleventh-hour roll-calls. Still pending are "special appropriations" running into hundreds of millions. Still at issue is the recklessly extravagant proposal to powerize the Central Valley Water Project at an additional cost of $170,000,000. And the Workers' Alliance and other pressure groups are still fighting bitterly to boost relief expenditures by some $20.000,000.

This is the time for "eternal vigilance." The clocks may be stopped. But the session isn't ended until the final roll call is called and the lights are dimmed on the scoreboard.—Contributed.

Spare The Rod - I'm In Uniform

While nearly 600 boys from all corners of California prepare for the third annual Boys' State at Sacramento, where late in June they will practice practical democracy by setting up their own state government and electing their own officials over in Germany youth hears a strange decree pronounced by its Fuehrer.

The Nazi order forbids parents or teachers to spank members of the Hitler Youth or Hitler Maids organizations while the youngsters are in uniform! Herr Hitler, it seems, isn't allergic to the howls of a caned culprit, but he feels the application of the rod to the seat of the venerated uniform is degrading to it. Here is unconscious humor at its richest—and pictures of little Hans sprinting to don his uniform before Papa can make it to the strap, suggest themselves.

Yet behind the ridiculous is symbolized the grim, humorless, goose-step ideology of Nazism—in graphic contrast with the ideology of a Democracy that calls its boys together to discipline and govern themselves, and to operate the machinery of self-rule. In Herr Hitler's eyes, the uniform, as a symbol of iron dominance of the citizen by the state, is sacred in itself, and must be intruded—so comically and yet so ominously—into the family circle at the German fireside. In America, boys are taught to respect their country's uniform, but as a symbol of cooperation, loyalty, honor and liberty, not as a fetish in khaki cloth to be blindly worshipped—Contributed.

"That Is America!"

A slender, shy Californian, Miss Luise Auguste Davis, former German citizen and graduate of this year's class of the Sacramento Evening High School at age 71, was asked why she became an American citizen. Her answer:

"America is my foster-mother. I feel that when your foster-mother has been very good to you, you should repay her with loyalty and alliegance. No one laughed at me when I came to class with young girls and struggled so with English words. Everyone was kind; everyone tried to help me.

"That is America.

"When you walk down the street, you cannot tell whether someone is rich or poor. By dress and manner they are much alike. I noticed during Veterans' parades that the marching men were all friendly, all equals in comradship—yet I knew that there were men of high office and position marching with those who have small jobs, perhaps none at all.

"That is America."

The homely, simple eloquence of that expression of "loyalty and allegiance to her foster-mother" should rebuke any native born American whose faith in America has been diluted with critical doubt because recent years have been troublous—and doubly rebuke any within our gates who have sought to undermine the principles of tolerance, fair play and equality summed up by this splendid citizen of California and the United States in the three words:

"That is America!"—Contributed.

CONTEST HIGHER FREIGHT RATES ON FARM CROPS

The following letter relative to increased railroad freight rates on fruits and vegetables, proposed by the carriers, contested by the California Railroad Commission, and now set for hearings by the Interstate Commerce Commission. has been received by Sen. Jerrold L. Seawell:

The Honorable Jehhold L. Sea-

The Honorable Jerrold L. Seawell, State Capitol Building, Sacramento, California.

Dear Senator:

In re: File I. C. C.-I. & S. No. 4577, Proposed Increased Estimated Weights on Fruits and Vegetables from California to the East.

Your attention is respectfully didected to the enclosed petition of this Commission to the Interstate Commerce Commission on behalf of the agricultural interests of California.

Recently the rail carriers filed new interstate tariffs proposing increased estimated weights for the transportation of all fruits and vegetables, including melons. which would materially increase the transportation charges of all such perishables to marketing destinations throughout the country.

The Railroad Commission. upon protest to the Interstate Commerce Commission. secured the suspension of the carrier tariffs. pending an investigation as to the reasonableness of the charges.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has set these matters for pubic hearing in San Francisco on July 5. 1939, and in Los Angeles on July 17, 1939.

This commission expects to appear for and introduce evidence on behalf of the growers and shippers of California during the aforesaid hearings.

Much of the data upon which the Interstate Commerce Commission will necessarily rely as to the economic and other conditions of the fruit and vegetable industries must be procured from the agricultural industry of the state.

In the event there are growers and shippers in your district who may be interested in these hearings, the Commission respectfully requests that you ask them to communicate with us.

Yours very truly,

Railroad Commission of the State of California.

Mr. and Mrs. Younkin will visit with Ken in Oakland next week and see Treasure Island before returning to Pomona where Mr. Younkin is connected with the Pomona pump company.

NEWMONT MINES SINKING SHAFTS FOR DEEP VEINS

At both the Zeibright and Brown's Valley mines sinking operations are being carried out. The vertical shaft of the Zeibright will be dropped from the 550 level to 1150 feet. The Brown's Valley shaft will be deepened from 1600, as it now is, to 2,-300 feet.

Robert Hendricks, manager of the Murchie, Zeibright and Brown's Valley mines, reported that from twelve to fifteen men were employed to assist in the new operation. The deepening of the shaft is not interfering with the production average, which amounts to 25,000 tons of ore for milling per month.

Veins have so far not been found at the depths to which the shafts are being sunk, but Hendricks states that there is every indication that they exist in these places at these depths.

The Brown's Valley mine now employs seventy men and is producing about seventy tons of ore each day.

KING OF IRAQ

Here is one of the world's youngest monarchs. His Majesty King Faisal II, three years old, succeeded to the throne of Iraq on the death of his father, King Ghazi, who was killed in an automobile accident. Until the king comes of age, Emir Abdul Ilah will act as regent.

OLSON LOBBY PLAGUES SOLONS

SACRAMENTO, June 12.—Lobbying tactics of Governor Olson were described as "disgraceful" in a statement issued today by Assemblyman Gerald Kepple of Whitter.

"Never before in Sacramento during a legislatuve session has the governor of California abused the privileges of his high office by efforts to ceorce legislators into voting for his personal ambitions," said Assemblyman Kepple, "in the extreme manner adopted by Governor Olson.

"The high pressure lobbying by the governor and his aides on the $170,000,000 Central Valley bill is a recent example. In order to get approval of this huge pork barrel fund the governor and his aides are reported to have threatened wholesale vetoes of legislators' bills unless a 'yes' vote was forthcoming on the Central Valley project.

"These threats were made to legislators despite the fact that thousands of letters and telegrams had been pouring in from the members' home districts, stating in unmistakable terms that the people did not want this measure enacted into law.

"Particularly we resent the high-handed lobbying of the governor's office on the floor of the assembly and his statement that lobbying for his own purposes is all right, but that any lobbying against his schemes is wrong.

"The situation has resolved itself into this state: does the legislature represent the people of California who elected it or does it represent the personal, ambitious schemes of Governor Olson to build up a political dynasty in California by use of the people's money?"

Kepple said, "so far as the economy bloc, which has consistently opposed the governor's spending schemes is concerned, the opposition will continue.

"We were lected on a platform of economy and efficiency in state government. We have fought, in almost every instance successfully, to keep our pledges. We will continue to fight during the remainder of the legislative session to keep our pledges to the people, who must pay the bill if we fail to safeguard their money," he declared.

BING BRINGS 4 NEW SONG SENSATIONS

To be an asset to a motion picture a song must have more than just the qualities to make it a popular hit.

So believe Johhny Burke and Jas. Monaco, who composed the four songs Bing Crosby sings in his new Universal picture, "East Side of Heaven," coming to the Nevada Theatre tomorrow.

"Naturally a song must have popular appeal or it's no good at all" declare Burke and Monaco. "But if it is to sung in a picture, it also must blend with the theme. In other words instead of slowing down the story, the song must give it even greater motivation."

Burke and Monaco wrote four songs for "East Side of Heaven"—"Sing a Song of Sunbeams," "Hang Your Heart on a Hickory Limb", "East Side of Heaven" and "That Sly Old Gentleman from Featherbed Lane."

To make sure these numbers would fit in with the action of the picture, the composers moved right in with Herbert Polesie, co-author of the original story and production associate on the film. Working hand in hand with Polsie, they concocted four numbers that are a definite part of the story.

50TH ANNIVERSARY OF PONEMAH COUNCIL

Monday evening June 5, was an outstanding one for Ponemah Council, No. 6 Degree of Pocahontas, when they celebrated the 50th anniversary of the institution of the council. As the guest of honor the council was delighted to have present for the occasion its only living charter member, Mrs. Grant Cordrey of San Francisco, who still retains her membership in Ponemah Council.

Other guests of honor present were Great Prophetess Olive Harrington, of Lolomi Council, Roseville, representative for the Great Pocahontas; Great Councillor, Minnie Carter of Ceanotha Council, Grass Valley; Rose Festerson, District Deputy Pohahontas of Lolomi Council, Roseville, and a large delegation of members trailing from Grass Valley.

Unable to be present the Great Pocahontas Tillie Cavagnaro, of San Francisco, sent a telegram of greetings from Ventura, where she was making preparations for the instituion of a new council on Saturday.

A floral drill team composed of fourteen ladies gowned in white and carrying mock orange blossoms escorted the guest of honor into the tepee where she was welcomed and escorted to a seat of honor.

Under dimmed lights the escort drill team paid a tribute to deceased members by entering the tepee with arm bouquets of calla lilies and forming a white cross in formation and in flowers. At the same time a solo, "The Old Rugged Cross," was beautifully rendered by Johanna Burton of Ceanotha Council. Upon retirement of the team, the lilies were gathered and placed in a large vase, beside the framed charter. This ceremony created a beautiful, impressive scene and was presented under the direction of Lila Day.

George Gildersleeve spoke, giving an interesting history of Ponemah Council. The degree staff then adopted a class of seven palefaces into the council.

Mrs. Cordrey with her charming personality, graciously responded to a call for remarks and delighted all present. Upon behalf of Ponemah Council, Nettie Gildersleeve presented Mrs. Cordrey with a beautiful gold nugget pin. It was greatly appreciated and accepted with heartfelt thanks to be kept always in memory of her associations in Nevada City, and as a memento of this auspicious occasion.

The other distinguished guests also responded with remarks of kind wishes and thoughts. Olive Harrington gave an invitation to the councils represented to attend Lolomi Council at Roseville on June 24 for the bass feed.

Ponemah Council was pleasantly surprised with the gift of a lovely lamp for the prophetess station from Ceanotha Council, Grass Valley and a rising vote of sincere thanks was extended the sister council.

On behalf of Ponemah Council, District Deputy Pocahontas, Elizabeth Lashbaugh, presented lovely bouquets of flowers to Olive Harrington, Minnie Carter, Johanna Burton, Freda Crocker, Annie Browning and Rose Festerson.

At midnight, following the eventful council meeting, the guests and members, numbering nearly a hundred, were invited to the banquet room where the committee in charge had set beautifully appointed tables. All details, the golden calliopsis bouquets, napkins, candy cups and lighted candles even the refreshments were in keeping with the golden anniversary theme. Mrs. Cordrey was again the recipient of a gift, a beautifully decorated gold and white cake, presented to her by Phyllis Bluxome, Wenonah.

The committee in charge deserve a great deal of credit. Nettie Gildersleeve, general chairman of the evening was ably assisted by the officers and other volunteer members of the council.

HARDLY AN OLSON

—have gone on strike against soaring budgets and are demanding an end to increasing taxation. Governor Olson's record high budget and his new tax proposals, it is generally agreed, against his program—and eventually led to collapse of his whole New Deal framework.

But the fight is far from finished. Refusing to take "no" for an answer the governor has spent the last few days discussing plans with his supporters for a wholesale "purge" of the legislature to rid it of those who fought his proposals. And the governor's foes, not to be caught napping, will spring a recall against the governor at the first sign of gubernatorial efforts at retaliation. The battle promises to go on all summer!
